Dahlia Seed

Dahlias grown from seed will bloom the first year and reproduce themselves from roots thereafter. Should be planted in flats during March and when the second set of leaves are developed, the plants should be set out in the open, providing all danger from frost is past.

Mixed seed from named varieties can be furnished in the Pompon, Single, Miniature and Collarette Types, also a limited quantity in the Large Varieties.

All types mentioned above, per package . . . . 25 cents

General Information

WARRANTY—All roots are warranted to be healthy and true to label, but having no control over them after delivery, they are not guaranteed to live and thrive and will not be responsible in any way for the crop.
